

Cooperation Parent Newsletter

Longer Version:

This month Soul Shoppe is teaching your children about Cooperation and how we can work together to create the school of our dreams. We believe that each child and staff person is unique and important, and has valuable gifts to contribute to our school. It may be difficult to accept some people's differences at times, but when we make the effort to cooperate we are stronger together.

Your child can cooperate by listening to others, sharing, taking turns, doing their part, including everyone, and recognizing unique skills/talents of the people around them. If you catch your child cooperating at home, please give them some verbal appreciation.

"No one can whistle a symphony. It takes a whole orchestra to play it." H.E. Luccock

Shorter Version:

This month Soul Shoppe is teaching your children about Cooperation and how we can work together to create the school of our dreams. We believe that each child and staff person is unique and important, and has valuable gifts to contribute to our school. If you catch your child cooperating at home, please give them some verbal appreciation.

"No one can whistle a symphony. It takes a whole orchestra to play it." H.E. Luccock